

WE NOMINATE

George Harold Brown and Arthur Seigfried Jensen, who are performing outstanding acts of citizenship in providing leadership for one of the Princeton Area's vitally important organizations—the Stony Brook District of the Boy Scouts of America. While these men, both of whom are associated with the David Sarnoff Research Center, minimize their own contributions to Scouting and prefer to stress that there must be at least one adult volunteer for every three Scouts, they are in large measure responsible for the direction and operation of a three-level (Cubs, Scouts, Explorers) program which benefits the 1,000-plus membership of some 40 different Scouting units.

This week's nationwide observance of the 44th anniversary of the founding of the Scouts focuses attention on the energizing forces behind a year-round schedule of activities dedicated to teaching boys to train—and ultimately to lead—themselves. As the newly named Chairman of the Stony Brook District Committee, Brown, 45-year old native of North Milwaukee, Wisc., is concerned with the functions of seven committees, including the Finance Committee that in the near future will turn to the "Friends of Scouting" for merited financial support. The 36-year old Jensen, a lifelong resident of New Jersey, is the District Commissioner, the equivalent of an operational chief of staff maintaining the closest possible liaison with unit leaders and their troop programs.

The time-rubbed axiom of "turning to a busy man in order to get things done" is aptly illustrated by Brown and Jensen, each of whom is the father of twin Scout sons. Brown, an alumnus of the University of Wisconsin and a RCA research specialist for the past 21 years, has made Princeton his home since 1942 and is presently Director of RCA's Systems Research Laboratory. In the biggest television story of 1953, the Federal Communications Commission's decision to adopt RCA's compatible color-TV system, he played a top role. Brown was a member of the National Television System Committee and for several years was in charge of the RCA TV-color developments which will permit viewers to see color programs in black and white on their current sets.

Jensen, whose Scouting career began in 1931 in Trenton's Greenwood Avenue Methodist Church, has held almost every conceivable position in the Scouts—from Tenderfoot to Explorer Adviser, Cubmaster and Neighborhood Commissioner. A research physicist, now concentrating on signal conversion storage, or "memory," tubes, he completed his academic training at the University of Pennsylvania, divided the war years between the Naval Research Laboratory and the Faculty of the U.S. Naval Academy. He joined the RCA Laboratories immediately after the war and, in addition to his Scouting activities, has made time for his duties as Training Officer (Commander, U.S.N.R.) of the Trenton-based Naval Reserve Training Battalion.

For their abiding interest in one of the most constructive citizen-training programs ever visualized; for helping the community understand the importance of Cubmasters, Scoutmasters, Explorer Advisers and Troop Committees—the men who make Scouting all that it is; for encouraging cooperation and teamwork among adults and boys alike; these two are Town Topics' nominees for

Topics of the Town
ETS for A & P? Like any community of any size, Princeton participates in conversational speculation on the future. This week, the town was discussing the possibility that the A & P Supermarket would not renew its lease at 172 Nassau Street and that either another big food chain store would replace it or constantly-growing Educational Testing Service would take over the area for office space.
The A & P had no comment at present, but has reportedly been seeking a North Harrison Street location. This would entail a major rezoning move on the borough's part, and the borough is not currently so inclined. A major factor in the picture was said to be the parking bottleneck that frequently exists in the block between Moore and Vandeventer.

The Winners. The closest Princeton election within memory ended Tuesday night when Mrs. Frederick H. Nicoll, township school board president, defeated the top candidate among the three losers by eight votes out of 1,290 ballots cast. The total set an all-time record for the district.
Mrs. Francis J. Darke led the ticket with 643, one more than the total for William L. Wilson. Mrs. Nicoll polled 619. Defeated for three-year terms were Wil-

The Annual Meeting of the Princeton Small Animal Rescue League will be held on Thursday, Feb. 11, at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Borough Vote Light
In sharp contrast to the heavy turnout in the township, only 106 borough ballots—about 2% of the registered voters—were cast. It was reportedly the lightest turnout since before the war.
Dr. Elizabeth H. Cawley and Dr. Jeremiah S. Finch each polled 102, Dr. Elmer G. Hornighausen, 101. All three incumbents were unopposed.
Single write-in votes were given B. Woodhull Davis, school superintendent, and Datus C. Smith, Jr., former board member. All items on the budget were passed virtually unanimously, none receiving more than four negative votes.

liam F. Gale (an incumbent with Mrs. Nicoll and Mrs. Darke), 611; John M. Landis, 601, and William M. Sloane, 583. A district-by-district tabulation appears on page 2.

In the race for a two-year term, James A. Perkins won over Delos C. Schoch, 694 to 505. The victorious candidates took three of the four districts, losing only in the first. All budget items were passed by margins of about 8 to 1.

It was the fourth district (located in the northeastern section of the municipality) that provided by far the heaviest vote and determined the outcome. Tabulation of the first three districts had left a gap of only 32 votes between the first and the last candidates, who were, respectively, Mr. Gale and Mrs. Nicoll. The latter then gained 40 votes to win by eight.

The four winners had the backing of the Parents and Taxpayers' Group; the losers were selected by the Citizens Committee for Princeton Township. The so-called P. and T. Group, issuing a "victory statement" shortly before disbanding in line with campaign statements, commented:

"We are glad that there were many more split ballots than 'slate' votes cast on Tuesday. The candidates thus elected are therefore not representative of any one group but of a majority of all township voters and of the municipality itself. They warmly welcome the suggestions and cooperation of every individual and group to make Princeton Township schools better schools."

Township Taxes Up 48 Points. A 33-point jump in the school rate is the primary factor for the $5.96 tax rate estimated for 1954 in Princeton Township. The figure is 48 points higher in all than last year's, with the municipal rate up eight points and the county seven. (The borough rate, announced last week as $4.92, represents a 20-point tax increase.)

The township's operating budget of $269,880 is some $35,000 above last year's, with $16,000 of this higher amount to be raised by taxation. Revenues from various sources will be $10,000 greater than last year, it was announced, while a tax base broader by $500,000 in new rateables is another major asset. Taxable property in the township is now evaluated at $10,753,258.

Services provided by the borough, largely in fire protection and sewage disposal, will cost the township $8,000 more than in 1953. Police salaries are higher and normal increments for other municipal employees are also partially responsible for the higher township expenditures, as are minor increased operating costs in a number of departments.

The Vanishing Volunteer. In other action taken by the Township Committee this week, an ordinance raising salaries of the three-man body became law. Mayor Albert Salzman will henceforth receive $1,000 annually, while Committeemen John H. Wallace, Jr. and Richard H. Wood will be paid $500 a year. The nominal rate of pay in the past has been $5 per meeting, with a yearly maximum of $200.

The policy thus adopted is sound, particularly in view of the numerous difficult problems which the governing body must solve at virtually every session it holds. It is to be hoped that the borough—Continued on Page 2 ough (which pays the mayor of a considerably large municipality—population-wise—only $500 and its conscientious, hard-working councilmen exactly nothing) will take a leaf from the township's book. Pleasant as it is for the taxpayer, the volunteer public servant should be retired with other delightful memories of less demanding days and some measure of compensation be provided his equally efficient successor.

Lawrence Holds the Line. Near-by Lawrence Township will rank as one of the few municipalities in the state this year able to report no increase in its tax for local purposes. The three-man body, of which David B. Sloan of Province Line Road is a member, indicated at its meeting this week that the budget for township expenditures may actually drop a point by the time figures are final.

The over-all rate in Lawrence will be up 19 cents, to $6.60 per $100 assessment. Seven cents of this figure is attributable to the county and 12 to the schools—with the latter also lower than in numerous other districts. The budget totals $465,799, up some $68,000 over last year but less than a tenth of the increase must be raised by taxes. Higher rateables and revenue from sewer rentals offset most of the heavier expenditures, the bulk of which are for the township's share to the joint Sewer Authority with Ewing Township.

The Political Picture. With school board elections gone if not forgotten, the voters' attention will be drawn in the weeks immediately ahead to the political picture. At the local level, the Democrats' resurgence last fall will find them filling full slates in both municipalities, while in the township probability exists of another primary race in the Republican party, particularly if Mayor Albert Salzman decides not to seek re-election.

New Jersey will vote for a congressman in every one of its 14 districts, with Mercer-Burlington Representative Charles R. Howell expected to stand for a fourth consecutive two-year term. For a look at current political trends at the state level, see the latest New Jersey Poll, page 17.

Having lost the governorship last fall for the first time in a decade, after carrying the State by a wide margin in 1952, Republicans are already greatly concerned with the party's choice for U.S. Senator. The six-year term of Robert C. Hendrickson expires, and with the balance of control in Congress so delicate, every effort will be Light a Candle. Tiger Auto celebrates, on the fifteenth of February, its eighth anniversary as an auto-supply and hardware store. Tiger opened eight years ago across the street from its present location. For the past three years, it has been at 26 Witherspoon.

At the moment, Tiger is projecting toward the fishing season and asking its fishing customers to consider certain new pieces of tackle. Prices seem to have gone down, if not to the bottom of the lake, at least a helpful fathom or two. For example, a reel that used to be about $13 is now $8.50—same quality, same materials. Poles that were about $9 are now offered for about $5.95.

Every car should have a Klip Beam head light for emergency road repairs at night. Plug it into the cigarette lighter socket and it will shine white or red, depending on which plastic lens you decide to use. It has an all-direction swivel head and 12 feet of cord for $2.39.

Hay Foot, Straw Foot. Shoes this summer will look like straw—some of them, anyhow—and washable straw at that. It's really fabric, of course, but who would ever guess? We found these at Hulit's, 140 Nassau, in several different styles.

One looks like an espadrille without the tie. White scroll embroidery goes across the vamp or three daisies slant down from an angled vamp, or a fat fringed bow marks the end of a low instep. Straw-fabric shoes come also in ballet style, or a sling heel with wide straps. Prices are about $7.95 for these shoes.

Espadrilles this spring are accented with white embroidery; scrolls outline the instep of one shoe that comes in navy, sky blue or terra-cotta (exactly the terra shade of some Bermuda shorts we saw at The Clothes Line). These are $3.95.

Straw combined with fabric shows up in Summerettes—a flat, espadrille-like shoe in straw with blue, red or brown. The narrow tie is shot with gold thread. For $4.95.

Lots of sandals this year have plain fabric—canvas or something similar—in a two-inch wide strap that holds instep and toe. Black, white and straw. Kedettes make a canvas sandal in navy, white, black or toast. At $3.95, it's a genuine summer all-day-round shoe.

If you're feeling Greek—or even Californian—try on a pair of leather thong sandals. In addition to the popular one that sends a thong between the toes, Hulit's has a multi-strap one, a few-strap one—all kinds. California Cobblers makes them in white, natural, red and navy. Prices from $4.95 to $7.95.

Still on the leather side, we found Trampese's variations on the loafer theme. Some have heel buckles and instep buckles, others feature a leather bow. For $7.95.

For very first walkers — as young as ten months or so—Stride Rite has designed a low shoe that hugs the heel without making a blister on the ankle-bone. Leather soles are sueded for safety. We saw a low tie-shoe in white, and a two-strap sandal in red. Picture this red sandal, if you please: It was size 3-C, just about four inches long.

Print and Plain. Several kinds of silk prints hang on the racks at The Clothes Line, 53 Palmer Square West. Some are conservative, like the navy dress-coat combination with a dress in subdued navy and white silk with small cuffed sleeves. The coat is navy faille. Wear them together or separately; the coat can be a made to keep the seat within G.O.P. ranks.

Senator Hendrickson this week announced his candidacy with the terse comment, "I've got to make a fight." When asked about a "deal" (involving a federal judgeship if he withdrew from the race) he countered, "I'd rather go back and hoe potatoes. I consider a seat in the U. S. Senate a sacred job."

But the incumbent may face primary opposition—on the theory within his own party that he is not strong enough to win in November. Among those mentioned as April opponents for him are former Congressman Clifford P. Case of Rahway, widely known throughout the State, Congressman Peter Frelinghuysen of Morristown, a member of the Princeton Class of 1938. The latter (who is scheduled to speak here later this month) has already announced his candidacy for re-election to the House.

Democratic choices for Senator Hendrickson's place have been reported as centering around Archibald Alexander of Bernardsville (Princeton '28) now state treasurer, and Dwight G. Palmer of Short Hills, former national Democratic treasurer. But, said the Democrats, a primary tussle is not anticipated.

Underlining the Republicans' concern over selection of the best candidate is a bill currently before

Award to Korea Hero

The Navy Cross, symbolic of the highest heroism, will be presented this Friday to Lt. Frederick E. Hilliard, U.S. M.C., who was seriously wounded over a year ago in Korea after his rifle platoon had carried out a successful raid on bloody Frisco Hill. The ceremonies will take place at 11 o'clock at the Philadelphia Navy Yard.

Wounded during the mid-winter assault, Lt. Hilliard led his men to their objective. On the way down, the 27-year old officer was wounded again by grenades as he directed the return to safety and carried a dying rifleman on his back. Lt. Hilliard's citation will single him out for his bravery in the face of his own injuries and the successful action of his platoon.

Hospitalized for long months, he is now employed at Princeton's Forrestal Research Center and has applied for admission to the University next September. He is living here with his wife and parents-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Merwin L. Pusey of 13 Bank Street.

The State Legislature proposing a shift in the primary election from April 20 to June 8. While its reported purpose is to increase the amount of time available for preparation of a "local option" referendum on bingo and raffles, a major factor is a move to gain time to settle the senatorial question. One belief is that Senator Hendrickson can be persuaded to withdraw.

The bill itself, identical with a 1953 attempt to set primaries in June, is not expected to be enacted. In that case, the legislature must act within the next ten days to determine how the referendum on bingo and raffles will be phrased, since it plans to adjourn by Washington's Birthday and will not reconvene until after the March 12 deadline for placing public questions on the April 20 primary ballot.

Licensing Starts Monday. Motorists will be able to obtain 1954 car registration inserts and driver's license renewals starting Monday, giving them six weeks before the March 31 deadline. New Jersey has 1,850,000 registrations and 2,200,000 licenses to renew.

This year's license plate insert will be of red-lettered aluminum. Motor vehicle agencies (located here at 354 Nassau Street) will be open, during March only, from 9 to 5 weekdays and 9 to 12 Saturdays and on March 29-31 they will be open until 6. Regular hours will be kept during the rest of this month. No 1954 initial car registration or driver's license can be issued until March 1.

An additional fee will be collected this year, for the creation of an Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund. A $1 fee will be collected for each insured vehicle —Continued on Page 5

Insured motorists will be able to collect from the new fund payment of unsatisfied claims and judgments resulting from automobile accidents when the motorist responsible for the accident fails to compensate the victim through insurance or cash settlement.

Auto Show a Hit. Princeton's first automobile show held over the weekend at the Princeton Shopping Center drew 9,865 visitors, according to a check of ticket stubs and coffee and doughnuts consumed.

Thomas Clark, American Store Company's general superintendent for Central Jersey, reported that during the two-day show approximately 12,000 doughnuts and 1,500 gallons of coffee were served. The show was held in the 20,000 square-foot building which will house the company's new Acme Supermarket.

The community's automobile dealers expressed enthusiasm over the size of the crowds which viewed the 1954 cars and are planning to make this show an annual event. In addition to the 39 new American models displayed by the dealers, the show included several British cars and Chevrolet's new sports model, the Corvette. The show was the second in a series of events planned by the Shopping Center prior to its Easter opening.

Red Cross Names Zarker. March 7 has been designated as Red Cross Sunday, with Princeton chapter solicitors scheduled to seek gifts totalling $39,065 to underwrite the organization's work at the local and national levels. Harold E. Zarker, vice-president of the Princeton Bank and Trust Company, will direct the 1954 fund drive.

Other appointments made by chapter chairman H. C. Sturhan include: Edwin H. Carnarius, general manager of the American Cyanamid Co., chairman of special gifts; Clyde D. Deitzler, manager of Public Service, chairman of business division; Thomas M. Page of Lawrenceville, chairman of branches and outlying areas; H. Stewart Peyton, assistant to the President of the First National Bank, chairman of the special groups division; Arthur R. Wengel, president of the Wengel Service Corporation, chairman of the house-to-house canvass; and Miss Grace V. Whiteman, assistant secretary of the Princeton Bank and Trust Company, chairman of public information.

"Y" to Run Art Workshops. Two letters to TOWN TOPICS and a joint statement issued this week by the YMCA and Princeton Group Arts record developments that followed the latter organization's announcement of its curtailed activity. Lack of financial support over a period of years caused Group Arts trustees to announce that plans for the future were indefinite, with suspension of workshops and an end to its 14 Spring Street headquarters a necessity.

The following letter typifies the belief that there is a major place for Group Arts in the Princeton community:

TO THE EDITOR OF TOWN TOPICS:

Are the people of Princeton going to let Group Arts fold up?

Though I have never gone too deeply into the arts, I was very much impressed when, upon my recent arrival here, I was told over and over again about Group Arts and its wonderful program. I remember feeling a kind of pride that in my new home town there were enough people sufficiently interested to create and build a program so widespread and so fine. I thought of how glad I was to have an organization like that for my children—when they come along—and how many people could, from an early age, learn to appreciate various forms of art, develop several areas of self-expression, have a place to meet and make new friends, and for children to learn to play and get along with other children.

I also thought of how wonderful it must be for the organizations, churches, and agencies of the community to have people being trained so that they (the organizations) could be assured of a continuing reservoir of fairly skilled people in the various arts—something most communities desperately need. People who are proficient in simple arts and crafts are so important in Sunday school groups, Boy Scout groups, etc., because they can more effectively help young people relate to each other and learn about their world.

I also thought of the agencies and organizations which usually try in other communities to fill some of the needs that, in Princeton, have been met by Group Arts, —groups such as the YMCA, the YWCA, Adult Education Departments, interested men's and women's clubs, churches, scouts, etc. I thought that it must be wonderful for them to have the area of the arts covered so well so that they could concentrate on the other needs of the people in the community.

It is hard for me to believe that the people of Princeton are willing to lose Group Arts and its seven years (I'm told) of experience,—seven years of building interest and participation, seven years of organization and hard work on the part of many people in an area that is so important in people's lives.

All of this will be lost unless we put more study into the problem and see what can be done to keep Group Arts alive and thriving.

(MRS.) PATRICIA CRISCITIELLO

Workshops Now Assured. The YMCA will sponsor the various workshops which Group Arts introduced to the community, offering instruction during the coming weeks "without a break," this week's statement makes clear. The decision followed a meeting of the directors of Group Arts and the Y's program committee, with complete details to be announced shortly.

The program will include the popular toddlers' groups, workshops in arts and crafts for adolescents, painting and ceramics classes for adults and the class in fundamentals of design. The same instructors will continue under the new arrangement. Class schedules will be determined by community interest, and those who wish to register for any of these courses should obtain further information now from the YMCA (3630.)

Group Arts has expressed itself as greatly pleased with the YMCA's willingness to assume these new responsibilities, particularly in the middle of a year already assigned a heavy schedule of community activities. It has been announced that under the new sponsorship, fees for some classes will be lower than those which Group Arts found it necessary to charge.

Group Arts has assumed full responsibility for the debts it has

Tank Delayed

The following telegram has been received by TOWN TOPICS from Leonard S. Smith, director of information for the Crusade for Freedom:

"Sincerely regret that participation of Czech Freedom Tank in homecoming celebration for John Hvasta in Hillside delayed arrival in Princeton until 6 p.m. Please express apologies to citizens of Princeton who were disappointed, and full thanks to the 3,000 who signed Freedom Scrolls."

A sizeable number of persons gathered in Palmer Square Saturday were disappointed by the three-hour delay in the arrival of the homemade tank in which eight Czechs escaped from behind the Iron Curtain. The appearance here was under the sponsorship of Post No. 76, American Legion, whose commander is Samuel G. Davison, and The Daily Princetonian.

incurred, and will continue various revenue-bearing projects in order to meet its obligations. The first of its spring series of film classics will be offered this Friday night in 10 McCosh Hall (see News of the Theatres, page 13.)

Letter of Thanks. The scores of residents of the Princeton community who have been associated with Group Arts in one manner or another since its inception immediately after the war will be interested in the following thoughts from its executive director, Rex Goreleigh.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

Permit me to express, through your columns, my sincere thanks to the Princeton community, active and inactive participants, for their support of Princeton Group Arts during my directorship for the past seven years.

Fathers' of this purposeful organization, as well as my appreciation to past and present board and advisory board members, instructors, committee workers and sympathizers.

My reward: memories of the patter of Toddlers' feet; their utterings and excitement amidst paint, clay, toys, music, story telling; their expressions of amazement at a newcomer, and their eagerness to return after the closing of each session. The after-school children, free from classroom routine, coming into the workshops, giving vent to their youthful exuberance and artistic effusions.

The 21-year old and the 80 year-young adults, re-discovering themselves and making new friends, through the various workshops and other activities. The doubtfulness of the results from their first showing in the outdoor exhibits in Palmer Square and the indoor shows at the Print Club and on Spring street.

The patience of a sympathetic landlord; the generous columns of the local press; and the goodness and understanding of a band of loyal friends.

License Revoked. A charge of drunken driving cost Edgar Smith, 27 Leigh Avenue, $225 and two years' revocation of his license in borough court Tuesday. Patrolman Frank Maguire was the complainant.

Magistrate Paul R. Chesebro fined J. Harold Vest, 194 Nassau Street, $25 for disorderly conduct. Charges against the defendant of reckless driving and failing to obey an officer's signal will be settled next week.

Other drivers fined: Mrs. Harriet G. Artzt, 51 Hawthorne Avenue, passing a "stop" sign, $4; Mrs. Rachel Lutz, 56 Battle Road, driving the wrong way on a one-way street, $3; Knut Enger, 22 Lafayette Road; Freeman Dyson, 14 Dickinson Street; and William Lembeck, 11 Dickinson Street, driving unregistered vehicles, $8 each.

The State Department of Motor Vehicles announced revocation for 30 days of the auto driver's and motorcycle driver's license of Marshall G. Nelson, Stockton Street. He was charged with failing to operate with rear lights and with two speeding convictions.

Scouts Mark 44th. Princeton's six Boy Scout troops this week are marking the 44th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America (See "Men of the Week") by attending special meetings, participating in church services and arranging window displays in stores.

Troop 88, sponsored by the Men's Group of the Methodist Church, held a Parent's Night dinner Monday. Dr. John Clark, president of the Central Asia Research Foundation and recently returned from Pakistan where he conducted geological surveys, was the principal speaker.

The dinner was attended by approximately 100 scouts and their parents. Among the guests were George H. Brown, chairman of the Stony Brook scout district; Eric Nelson, field scout executive; Arthur S. Jensen, district commissioner; Leslie L. Burns, neighborhood commissioner, and Paul Assenheimer, Men's Group representative. Raymond Ridgeway received his Star Badge and the Court of Honor following the dinner.

Troop 42 entered as a unit in the drill team competition held in the Trenton Armory for troops in the George Washington Council, which covers Mercer and several adjoining counties. The troop took third in the unofficial judging. Ridgely Applegate, James Contelyou, Eric Fisher, William Pearson, Gilbert Rowan and George Schmidt served as ushers at the Sunday morning service at the Second Presbyterian Church, which sponsors the troop.

The newly-formed Troop 57 sponsored by the First Baptist Church is scheduled to receive its charter from the BSA on Sunday, February 21. This Sunday the troop will attend the morning service at the Mount Pisgah AME Church and the Rev. John W. Johnson will address part of his sermon to the scouts.

Music in Princeton

UNIVERSITY CONCERTS

The Cleveland Symphony Orchestra will return to Princeton once again next Wednesday evening to give a concert in McCarter Theatre. Tickets for the concert, fourth in Series One of the University Concerts and an annual favorite here, may be obtained at the University Store (tel. 3333) and the box office Wednesday evening.

Under the direction of George Szell, the highly-esteemed orchestra of 100 musicians will play the overture to "La Gazza Ladra" by Rossini; Beethoven's Eighth Symphony; Prokofiev's Symphony No. 7 and symphonic excerpts from the ballet "Daphnis and Chloe" by Ravel.

Good But Not Great. After a number of concerts involving varied combinations, the University Concerts series returned Tuesday evening to the "classical" medium of chamber music, the string quartet. Featured in works by Mozart, Beethoven, and Walter Piston in McCarter Theatre was the Hungarian Quartet, an ensemble known and respected by musical audiences for many years. The Hungarian Quartet holds a more or less standard position among present chamber groups; it is not particularly noted for tonal suavity or brilliance or rhythmic drive—but its straightforward approach can often provide a high degree of musical satisfaction.

The coldness of the evening probably accounted for a certain stiffness of tone and some lapses of intonation in the opening Mozart Quartet in E Flat Major, K. 428. Things warmed somewhat in the spacious Andante and rapid passages were well negotiated in the finale, but the work as a whole did not receive the combined touch of lyricism and intensity it so well deserves. An occasionally excessive slide tended to range the Hungarian Quartet's idea of Mozart somewhat further to the east of Vienna than we are accustomed to.

The Fourth Quartet by Walter Piston was an example of the eclectic style often associated with this "elder statesman" among American composers. Piston has often been accused of being an academician, and a work such as this quartet would tend to bolster such an opinion (leaving aside the composer's long tenure as Professor of Composition at Harvard). The central area of the work is the Adagio, a movement not clearly articulated as to its large-scale formal organization and perhaps too long, but having passages of great intensity and beauty made effective by always gratifying string writing.

The Adagio and the preceding Soave make up the first and by far the better half of the work. The last two movements consist of a Vivace scherzo which is an airy nothing, and a finale saturated with direct references to Bartok's mature style but lacking the late composer's sense of proportion and formal balance.

After intermission the Quartet returned to play a fine performance of Beethoven's Quartet in E Minor, Op. 59 No. 2. Particularly notable was the Scherzo, in which the ensemble achieved a high point in the concert so far as musicality, tone, and real rhythmic coherence was concerned. Their conception of the Beethoven was consistent and carefully thought out. Even occasional protrusions of the second violin line out of the mass sonority could not hamper the effectiveness of the performance.

Tuesday night's concert, taken as a whole, showed Princeton music-lovers a good but not great ensemble. Their artistry is not consummate, but certainly satisfying—and one cannot fail to appreciate the values of experience and musical sense which so often distinguish their playing.

The post also calls attention to the fact that survivors of veterans who were in service after September 1940 may avoid loss of benefits by calling at the Trenton Social Security Office in the Post Office Building. This should be done whether or not the veteran ever worked under social security.

Talk on Israel. Dr. Gardner Patterson, Director of the International Finance Section of Princeton University and professor in the Department of Economics, will speak on Israel to the Women's College Club of Princeton Monday at 3:30 p.m. at Avalon.

An authority on foreign affairs, Dr. Gardner came to Princeton in 1949 after having served overseas as a Navy intelligence officer and U. S. financial adviser in Greece. He is a graduate of Michigan, where he earned his A.B. degree, and Harvard, from which he received his Ph.D.

Mrs. Edward H. Roberts will be the hostess-in-charge, assisted by Mrs. Robert A. Benham, Mrs. Rowland Burstan, Mrs. Gordon Dyke, Mrs. Warren Findley, Mrs. Lefferts Loetscher and Mrs. Eugene P. Wigner.

Art Work Shop. A work shop in art under the direction of Huseyin Halit will be launched at the Y.M.C.A. beginning Tuesday, February 23. The 16-week course will offer instruction and criticism in oil, water color and drawing—both modern and classic.

Mr. Halit, who has conducted a similar course at Princeton Group Arts, attended the Academy of Fine Arts, Istanbul, Turkey, and graduated from the Brera Academy of Fine Arts in Milan, Italy. Persons interested in further information or in enrolling in the work shop, which has a limited enrollment of 15, should write or call the Y.M.C.A. The opening of the course, "Landscaping the Home Grounds," has been rescheduled for Wednesday, February 24. Those interested should register for one of the six remaining vacancies.

McCARTER THEATRE

McCarte opens its new series of attractions, scheduled under a policy of increased use of the theatre, with "Stalag 17" next Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings at 8:30. There will also be a matinee at 2:30 on Saturday.

Tickets may be obtained at the University Store (Tel. 3333) and by mail from the box office. Mail orders should include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Details on the price scale may be found in the advertisement on this page.

George Tobias will be starred in the role of Stosh, clown of the prison camp barracks. Robert Shawley, who also directed the touring company, will be seen in the role of Blondie which he originated on Broadway and played in the film version. Other featured players will be Albert Dannibal and Carmen Filpi.

The appeal of the comedy-drama is indicated by the fact that without a star and in the face of a May opening, the show ran 59 weeks on Broadway. The uncut stage version has been accumulating more excellent notices since its road opening a month ago.

HIGH SCHOOL PRODUCTION

"The Desert Song," Sigmund Romberg's familiar romantic musical comedy, has been chosen by Princeton High for its annual musical production. Performances will be given in the school auditorium the evenings of March 25, 26 and 27.

Thomas Hilbish will direct the production, Sandra Dinsmore and Don Smith, both of whom starred in last year's successful "Carousel," have been chosen for the leading roles. Other students who have been cast to date include

FILM CLASSIC SERIES

The spring program of film revivals sponsored by Group Arts will open this Friday evening with "Tillie's Punctured Romance" starring Charlie Chaplin, Marie Dressler and Mable Normand. Showings will be at 7 and 9 p.m. in McCosh Hall 10 on the University Campus.

Tickets for Friday's show and for the complete five-program series will be available at the door. "Tillie's Punctured Romance" is one of Chaplin's earliest full-length comedies, and will be accompanied by his two-reel sketch, "The Floor-Walker."

To Exhibit Ferrer Pix

An exhibition of original paintings by Jose Ferrer has been arranged by Richard Skinner, general manager of McCarte Theatre, to coincide with the run of "Stalag 17" next week. The paintings will be displayed in the theatre lobby from Thursday through Saturday.

Mr. Ferrer, a member of the Princeton Class of 1933, produced the New York version of "Stalag." His paintings to be shown will include the self-portrait which recently appeared in Collier's magazine. The display will also include a drawing of the noted actor in the role of Toulouse-Lautrec and a photograph of him as Cyrano de Bergerac, considered the most famous of his many characterizations on stage and screen.

dress, too. An investment at only $28.95.

Other prints speak with a loud voice, like the wonderful bright slate blue with little red birds darting over its surface. A navy silk has a lion finish and one unusual print looks like oil on water. It comes in grey with blue or pale rose with sea green. About $30 for these dresses.

Dark cottons cost about $17.95, more or less. We saw a useful one in dark brown with narrow lines in gold and fuchsia.

Look at Bermuda shorts when it's time to put away the woollens. Linen shorts have a hand-stitched fly and pocket bands. Colors are beige, aqua and a terra-cotta that matches the Huli espadrilles. For $10.95. Same shorts with side placket instead of fly, are $8.95.

Lots of gay plaids in these shorts, some as authentic as a hurr. One style is khaki-color with narrow stripes of pink, yellow or blue that match your favorite boy-style shirt. These shorts have wide belt tabs that look just as trim without a belt. It's the fabric; $5.95 the price.

Sleeveless blouses seem a little on the shivery side but there they hang anyhow, in sets with matching skirts. Not matching, exactly; the skirts may reverse the print or they may be plain with bands of the print going down the side. We liked a gold-knit with narrow bands of a blue and white print, just like the blouse. Lines are simple—little, boy blouses, gathered skirts.

Kate Greenaway. A smart dress manufacturer uses the name of those quaint little-girl dresses from a hundred years ago. The new Kate Greenaways are at Al-Jou's, 134 Nassau, with incredible prices like $1.98 for a sleeveless warm weather dress with a big Bertha collar and a full skirt. The same price buys a cap-sleeved dress with pointed collar. We saw both these in white, with red trim.

Another Kate dress has a crooked waistline with lace edged white collar and cuffs. It's $7.98. Red chamois and apples appear on its white background.

Older girls could wear any of the seersuckers—plaid or polka-dot. One cotton skirt for sizes 7-12 has a print border that looks like Guatemalan embroidery.

We looked at some spring outfits for the smallest members of the family. One corduroy overall has a bib that looks like a Tattersall vest. A polo shirt has fire engines snorting along on a white background. Another has rebuses for size two to figure out.

Feather in Your Ear. Bright as a peacock—new feather earrings at Stonewald's, 13 Palmer Square West. One design is a loop of gold with feathers in turquoise or white skirled around it. Another has a spray of multicolored feathers fanning out from a single pearl. (Also in white or turquoise.) They are $1.20 including tax.

Earring grips are 50c for four pairs. They fit all screw earrings and will keep you from moulting on Nassau Street.

Westlox has a new electric clock for $8.95 that you can set for a bright, medium or dim light in ivory or blue. It's a dependable night-light for any bedroom.

If you want a real "production," look at Stonewald's musical cigarette holder for $19.95. It stands about ten inches high and looks like a battle monument of some kind. Turn it on and it swivels slowly open to reveal the cigarettes in their semi-circular holders. In plastic—we were so fascinated watching it that we forgot to notice what time it plays. "Battle Hymn of the Republic," probably.

Splendid selection of Valentine's here at Stonewald's, including those brash ones you avoid sending to maiden aunts.

News Of The Theatres

film is scheduled to open Thursday, February 25, at an advanced price scale. The theatre will be closed the day before to complete the installation of new screen and stereophonic sound equipment.

His Majesty O'Keefe (Thurs.-Sat.) sends Burt Lancaster off on another series of adventures, this time in a tropical setting. Lancaster finds himself cruising around the Technicolor Fiji Islands, exploiting, fighting, romancing and carrying on with villains and kingships. The heroics are done with more than a touch of laughter and the South Sea setting is handsome. Joan Rice provides the sarong interest.

The Eddie Cantor Story. (Sun.-Tues.) has upwards of 20 songs performed on the sound track by Mr. Cantor himself, and that's about the sum of merit in this sentimental film "biography." The film wanders through various aspects of the entertainer's career with a minimum of drama. Keith Broccoli is energetic in the title role, and the cast also includes Marilyn Eskin (playing Ida), Aline McMahon and various stage and screen notables. Technicolor and fancy sets, but Cantor's old favorites are still the main assets.

The Long, Long Trailer (Wed.-Sat.) has a story that defies description, being mostly a series of slapstick events performed by some experts at the game, the TV team of Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz, assisted by Marjorie Main and Keenan Wynn. The whole thing hinges round a honeymoon tour of the country during which Lucille and Desi compete in wackiness, to highly amusing effect. In color.

THE GARDEN

Shane (Thurs. - Sat.) repeats in Princeton for the very good reason that virtually without exception those who have seen it before found it a fine Western—one of the all-time greats. It's the traditional farm settlers vs. cattle ranchers story, but told with great skill. The fine acting of Alan Ladd, Brandon de Wilde, Van Hellen and Jack Palance, plus marvelous work with the Technicolor camera and George Steffen's restrained direction do the job.

Follow the Fleet (Mon. - Tues.) is the Irving Berlin favorite re-issued. The cast of the musical includes, among others, Fred Astaire, Ginger Rogers, Randolph Scott, Lucille Ball, Betty Grable and Tony Martin. It's a familiar kind of show, but still entertaining.

The Greatest Love (Wed.-Thurs.) brings Ingrid Bergman back in her first picture in four years. She should have waited four more. Not that this story of a woman renouncing worldly position to aid the poor and fallen doesn't have strong emotional moments, but there is too much that is mediocre or hackneyed. Miss Bergman was directed by her husband, Roberto Rossellini.

Walking My Baby Back Home (Fri.-Sat.) has a minute story of the opera career vs. girl-and-popular music variety, but it features enough entertainment to satisfy those who don't care. It has Donald O'Connor, Janet Leigh, Technicolor, plenty of songs and jazz of sorts, and a number of noted musicians. O'Connor excels with his combined song-dance-comedy talent.

Agreement Confirmed. The eight Ivy League colleges announced this week that they have ratified the agreement reached last December by their respective presidents. In essence, the plan calls for:

- The already-publicized round-robin in football, scheduled to start in 1956, "and the principle of" round-robin schedules in as many sports as practicable."

- The oft-lamented ban on spring practice to continue.

- The continuation of "firm standards of eligibility," these to include prohibition of athletic scholarships, use of freshmen on varsity teams and use of other undergraduates in more than three different academic years.

The presidents of the eight colleges also reaffirmed their stand against post-season and all-star contests for players and coaches alike and their limitation on the length of seasons for various sports and the number of games to be scheduled. These include primarily football and basketball.

First formal ratification of an Ivy agreement was achieved just under a decade ago. Member colleges are Brown, Columbia, Dartmouth, Harvard, Pennsylvania, Princeton and Yale.

Quiet Weekend at Home. For the fourth Saturday in a row, little action on the home front is promised Princetonians, with the following three weekends offering "doubleheaders" in hockey and basketball plus an assortment of other winter sports. Attention will be turned to New Haven, where the Tiger hockey team will seek to continue its form reversal at the expense of a hard-battling Yale sextet. At Ithaca, the basketball quintet will have its hands full as it takes on Cornell, possessor of a fine 11-4 record and battling Penn for the lead in the Eastern League.

Here in Princeton, the swimmers put their 4-1 record on the line against a strong Dartmouth outfit at 3 in Dillon Pool. Lehigh's invariably powerful wrestling team will furnish Jimmy Reed's mat squad with opposition at 8:30 Saturday night. Fencing and freshman basketball round out the program.

Brown Beaten. Biggest upset of the current season from a Princeton point of view was the hockey team's conquest of Brown in the Rhode Island Auditorium Saturday night. The Tigers not only knocked off the favored Bruins, 2-1, but had a shutout with four minutes left.

With one man in the penalty box, another Princetonian was called for playing with a broken stick, a technicality he had not noticed but which the referee did. As a result, the Orange and Black was two men short and that enabled Brown to score when it had been unable to do so during the previous 56 minutes.

Captain Blair Torrey obviously had one of his finest nights in the cage (he has been the Pentagonal League's most efficient goalie during the past two seasons) and was largely responsible for the outcome. He was credited with 35 saves in all, including two when the opposition skated in on him alone.

In contrast, the Tigers got only 16 shots at goalie Dave Halvorsen that he was called upon to stop in front of the Brown nets. Two of these beat him, and that was all the margin Torrey needed.

George Hackl of Bayard Lane, lone Princeton resident on the varsity squad, also made a major contribution to the team's success. He was credited with an assist on the first goal and scored the second, playing on the newly-formed line with Pete Gall and Pete Millard.

Dick Court, veteran defenseman, put the victors out in front in short order. A pass from Hackl and Millard enabled him to score in 4:46 of the first period, a backhanded shot from 15 feet out on the right finding the mark.
It was 11:48 of the second round when Hackl caged his goal, scoring from a scrimmage in front of the nets after taking a pass from Gall and Millard. Brown continued to press for the equalizers, but until Torrey had only three men on the ice with him, the high-scoring Rhode Islanders were frustrated on every occasion.
In addition to bottling up an attack which had averaged five goals in 11 previous contests, the Tigers were particularly effective in stopping Dan Keefe. The fast-skating Brown forward tied Hank Bothfeld for scoring honors last year and was the league leader this season until blanked last Saturday.

Personnel Switch Helps. A reshuffling of all three lines and both regular defensive pairs has aided the Tigers considerably. Dick Vaughan (who said in November that this should be a "February team") considers his first two lines about on a par. With Roger Boocock back in action after a bout with the flu, he will skate with Derek Price, formerly on defense, and George Seragg, the team's top scoring player.
Millard, Hackl and Gall will stay together, while Bevis Longstreth, John Butsch and Bill Osgood form the third unit on offense. Ed Stimpson, used earlier this season as center on the second line, is now pairing with Court on defense, while sophomores Hugh Williams and Matt Plum are their immediate reserves.

Harvard remains the favorite to take the 1954 title and is the only unbeaten team in the circuit, having stopped Dartmouth twice, Yale, which beat Brown 3-2 in overtime after being swamped, 8-2, earlier at Providence, will be favored over the Tigers this weekend if only because the Elis will be playing on their own ice.
Following the game Saturday, four of the five remaining contests are set for Baker Rink. Harvard will be here Saturday, February 20, and Yale the following Monday afternoon, Washington's Birthday, at 4. Brown on the 27th and Dartmouth March 6, with a trip to Boston on March 3, round out the schedule.

League Leaders Next. Facing Cornell at Ithaca Saturday night and Pennsylvania on Wednesday, Princeton's basketball team now comes up against the strongest quintets in the league. Since the Tigers could beat only cellar-dwelling Brown in their first five games, victory in either of these road engagements will be an upset of major proportions.

Having run away from Cornell in the Ithacans' big Barton Hall last week, Penn must now be considered the league favorite. It was beaten at Columbia, but its schedule is better balanced than the Ithacans, who have six of their remaining eight games to play away from home. They are currently deadlocked for first place with 5-1 records apiece.

The tip off on what might occur at Hanover came last Friday night against Brown. Princeton had whaled the Bruins, 106-66, in Dillon Gym last month, but could not tie down a triumph at Providence by ten points until the final three minutes. No one expected a replay of the record-breaking performance here, but if Brown could give the Tigers that much trouble, a somewhat better Dartmouth quintet was probably too much for them.

It was a 74-64 final last Friday, with all five starters hitting double figures, paced by Dick Batt and Bud Haabstad with 17 each. Princeton led 35-31 at the intermission, finally edging away in the last few minutes when it protected its lead and Brown fouled repeatedly in an attempt to gain possession.

At Hanover, only Haabstad scored well from the floor, coming up with 19 points. However, he missed seven of eight foul shots and when the rest of the team could not find the field goal range, Dartmouth snared a 60-to-50 victory. Dick Batt had ten, fouling out with five minutes to go; Johnny Easton was cut to seven, Mike Loprete to four and Phil Zuravleff to three. All of them had been in double figures against both Brown and Temple.

Princeton held a brief lead twice in the first half but trailed, 26-23, at the intermission. A poor third period, during which they could account for no more than ten points, made it 41-33 for the Indians before a Winter Carnival crowd of 2,600. After that, the Green had little trouble maintaining the advantage, particularly when Batt fouled out and height told the difference in the rebounding.

Little Tigers Bow. Paced by Marv Trotman's 16 points, Princeton High's basketball team played a spirited and aggressive game against Trenton Catholic Friday night in Trenton, but the Little Tigers were unable to fashion a potent scoring punch and suffered a 63-53 setback.

Trotman, a surprise starter in the game, kept the Little Tigers in the fray until he fouled out late in the third stanza. Supposed to —Continued on Page 17

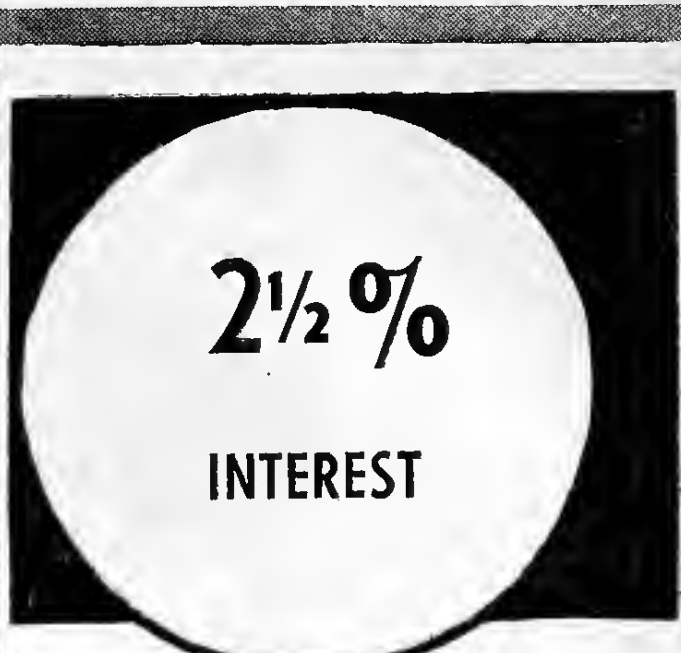

ANOTHER CARDINAL? Homer Smith, Princeton football captain, was drafted by the Chicago Cardinals, with whom he will see action if he decides to play pro football. Frank McPhee, 1952 captain, was also selected by the Cards but is now playing for the U.S. Marines.

The New Jersey Poll

DEMOCRATS GAIN AGAIN
IN VOTE FOR CONGRESS
BUT G. O. P. HOLDS LEAD

How would the two major political parties stand, in the state if New Jersey citizens were voting for Congressmen today instead of in November—less than 9 months from now?

Results of the latest statewide "trial heat" of voter preference by Princeton Research Service's New Jersey Poll show Republicans can candidates for Congress running ahead of Democratic candidates by a margin of 24%. Today's findings represent a 6.4% loss in G.O.P. strength since the November, 1952, Congressional Elections when G.O.P. candidates for Congress (House of Representatives) polled 57.4% of the statewide vote for Congressional candidates, and the Democrats polled 42.6%.

Today's results are also of special significance because they provide an excellent indication of the basic strengths of the two major political parties in the state today apart from the personal popularity of Republican President Eisenhower and Democratic Governor Meyner.

Here's how the vote went in the state when New Jersey Poll staff reporters in late January asked a representative sample of the state's voters:

"If the elections for Congress were being held today, which party would you like to see win in this state—the Republican or the Democratic?"

The following table shows the statewide results among those who had an opinion on the above question, or who, if undecided, stated toward which party they "leaned."

Republican	51%
Democratic	49%

Three months ago, the vote on the same question was Republican 52%; Democratic, 48%.

When today's results are stacked up alongside the vote in the New Jersey 1946, 1948, 1950, and 1952 Congressional Elections, the trend looks like this:

	Rep.	Dem.
1946 Election	59.6%	40.4%
1948 Election	51.6	48.4
1950 Election	55.2	44.8
1952 Election	57.4	42.6
N. J. Poll, Nov. '53	52.0	48.0
Today's Poll	51.0	49.0

Two important facts should be kept in mind in interpreting today's findings:

1. The figures concern only candidates for the House of Representatives. Every one of the 14 New Jersey Congressional districts will hold elections this November for the House.
2. The findings reflect sentiment for New Jersey as a whole. They cannot be applied to any single Congressional district.

In 1946, the G.O.P. made a clean sweep of the state with the exception of Hudson County, winning 12 of 14 Congressional seats. In 1948, 1950, and 1952, the G.O.P. took 9 Congressional seats; the Democrats, 5.

With the Democratic victory in Union County last November, the present lineup is Republican Congressmen 8; Democratic Congressmen 6.

This is the second of a series of New Jersey Poll measurements of Congressional strength in New Jersey. This year the New Jersey Poll will predict the results of the New Jersey Congressional and U. S. Senate Elections.

SPORTS IN PRINCETON

have been suspended in the week for scholastic difficulties, he was allowed to play in the contest by a ruling from school officials.

The Little Tiger star tallied 12 points in the first half to keep his teammates within reach of the Blue and Gold at 34-30. He added four points in the third period before committing his fifth personal with PHS trailing by only one point. Then Catholic quickly widened the gap to six points and the visitors could never threaten again.

The Princeton eagles, who dropped their sixth decision in 12 outings, were able to keep the contest by intercepting passes, control of the backboards. Lack of a sustained scoring drive, stealing the ball and at times tak-coupled with Catholic's fast-breaking attack, proved the Blue and the White's undoing.

Friday afternoon at 3:30 p.m. the Little Tigers will endeavor to improve on their 500 mark when they clash with the Hun School in the Seminary gym. The Blue and White won the first game between these two teams by a wide margin.

Hun Drops Another. The Hun School basketball team is still seeking its first victory of the season. The Red and Black extended its losing streak to eight last Saturday afternoon by dropping a 73-56 decision to Rutgers Prep in the Seminary gym.

Captain Jim Lavan paced the Johnny Huns in their losing cause with 23 points while Tom Rafferty contributed 10 markers. Al Murasko, Rutgers Prep forward, captured individual honors and tied the New Brunswick school's record by pouring 36 points through the hoop.

The Red and Black, after meeting the George School at home Wednesday, tangles with Princeton High's quintet in the Seminary gym this Friday and next Wednesday will journey to Bay-ley-Ellard.

Short Notes. Princeton's freshman hockey team lost its first game of the season last Saturday, 8-2, to the strong Hamden High sextet. The 1957 skaters, coached by Johnny Stuegman, will go against Yale's Birthday in New Haven. One measuring stick of their respective ability might be the good Taft School team, which Princeton defeated, 4-2, but which turned back Yale, 4-1.

Princeton's wrestling team won its second match of the season at Providence last week, trimming Brown, 16-13. The Tigers were behind, 13-8, with two bouts to go out Carlton MacDonald threw his man and heavyweight Jim McAleer gained a 4-3 decision.

Howie Canonne's swimmers also took a close one from Navy, 43-41. A one-two finish in the 440, next to last event in the program, provided the margin.

All future home basketball games this season will be on Channel 13, television station WATV. The Columbia game last Wednesday was the first to be seen from Dillon Gym, with the New York Post as the sponsor.
